Banking On The World to Come

“Place now you hand under my thigh. And I will have you swear that you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites....” (24:3)

A Jew from the country was once leading his cow to town for slaughter. The nearest town where there was a qualified shochet (slaughterer) was a considerable distance away, and the Jew was tired. He looked up, and he saw in the distance, coming toward him, what looked like a very distinguished rabbi.

When the Jew reached the rabbi, he asked the rabbi if he would shecht his cow for him. The rabbi replied in the affirmative, pulled out a shochet’s knife, and proceeded to shecht the cow.

Afterward, the rabbi asked the Jew “By the way, do you think you could lend me a small sum of money for a few weeks?”

The Jew replied “I’d like to help you, but I’m afraid I really don’t know who you are. Don’t take it personally, but how do I know I’ll get my money back?”

The rabbi looked into the Jew’s face and said “When it comes to money, you want references, but with the cow, you’re quite content to let a perfect stranger shecht your animal... Aren’t you worried you’ll be eating non-kosher meat?”

Eliezer was Avraham Avinu’s most trusted servant. He was in charge of Avraham’s considerable wealth. In this, Avraham trusted Eliezer implicitly. However, when it came to spiritual matters, to the critical choice of a wife for Yitzchak — a mother-to-be of the whole Jewish People — then Avraham made Eliezer take an oath.

If we are careful about our bank account in this world, shouldn’t we, at the very least, give the same concern to our bank account in the First National Bank of Olam Habah (the World-to-Come)?

The life of Sarah, mother of the Jewish People, comes to a close at the age of one hundred and twenty seven. After mourning and eulogizing her, Avraham buries her in the Cave of Machpela. As this is the burial place of Adam and Chava, Avraham is prepared to pay its owner Ephron the Hittite the exorbitant sum which he demands for the cave. Avraham places the responsibility for finding a suitable wife for his son Yitzchak on his faithful servant Eliezer, who takes an oath to choose a wife from amongst Avraham’s family and not from the Canaanites. Eliezer travels to Aram Naharaim, to the city of Nahor, and prays to Hashem to show him a sign so he will know whom to choose. At evening time, as he is about to water his camels, Rivka providentially appears and Eliezer asks her for a drink of water. Not only does she give him to drink, but she draws water for all ten of his thirsty camels. (Some 140 gallons!) This extreme thoughtfulness and kindness is the sign that she is the right wife for Yitzchak, and a suitable mother of the Jewish People. Negotiations with Rivka’s father and her brother Lavan finally result in her leaving with Eliezer. Yitzchak marries Rivka and brings her into the tent of his mother, Sarah. He is then consoled for the loss of his mother. Avraham remarries Hagar, who is renamed Ketura to indicate her improved ways. Six children are born to them. After giving them gifts, Avraham sends them to the East. Avraham passes away at the age of one hundred and seventy-five and is buried next to Sarah in the Cave of Machpela.

BONUS QUESTION?
By giving the camels water, Rivka demonstrated her sharp intelligence, plus her sensitivity to the feelings of others. How so?

I DIDN’T KNOW THAT!

Eliezer said “I will not eat until I have spoken my words....” (24:33) It is forbidden to eat before doing a mitzvah such as lulav or shofar. Therefore, now that Eliezer had the opportunity to fulfill the oath he made to Avraham, it was forbidden for him to eat.

HAFTORAH: MELACHIM 11

The need to secure the succession of the Jewish People, which is the subject of this week’s Parsha, is reflected in the Haftorah: King David is coming to the end of his days (like Avraham) and his senior son, the handsome and indulgent Adonijah tries to wrest the succession from Shlomo, King David’s appointed heir. But King David is alerted to Adonijah’s scheme by his wife Bas-sheva and Nasan the prophet, and the plot is foiled.

THE WILL TO DIVIDE

The Chafetz Chaim once wrote to a rich man that he was obliged to make a clear will, dividing his property between his sons, for, as we find in this week’s Haftorah, if the prophet Nasan admonished King David to leave clear instructions regarding his succession, certainly this rich man was obliged to do so. We do not find that King David was annoyed at the prophet for reminding him of his mortality; rather he took steps to rectify a difficult situation. As the Chafetz Chaim wrote: “Children are known to disobey their parents and quarrel amongst themselves even during their parents’ lifetime — how much more so after their death!”

AN ANIMAL WHICH REQUIRES NO SHECHITA?

If an animal is properly slaughtered and there is found inside it a full-term offspring, the Torah gave permission to eat this “ben pakuah” without slaughtering it. We consider the shechita which was performed on the mother as having been a shechita on its unborn offspring as well.

Our Sages were concerned, however, that if people see any animal being eaten without shechita, they may mistakenly conclude that shechita is not required for any animal. They therefore decreed that the Torah’s permission to eat the meat of a ben pakuah without shechita be limited to such animals which are consumed before their feet touch the ground. Once this has happened and they have the appearance of regular animals they cannot be eaten without shechita because of the danger of confusing them with animals which require shechita.

By Torah law a full grown ben pakuah and its offspring may be slaughtered the same day, since the Torah ban on slaughtering mother and child on the same day applies only to animals where shechita is required. Similarly, the obligation to give certain parts of a slaughtered animal to the kohen does not apply to the ben pakuah which requires no shechita.

What about the ben pakuah whose feet have touched the ground and requires shechita by rabbinic law — is the ban on slaughtering mother and son now applicable, and is there an obligation to give away those parts to the kohen?

It is the consensus of the halachic authorities (Shulchan Aruch Yoreh De’ah 13:2) that as regards the first issue, once shechita is required for the ben pakuah it will be forbidden to slaughter its child the same day. But the Sages did not totally equate it with an animal which requires shechita by Torah law, and therefore exempted the owner from making those gifts to the kohen.

WHAT’S IN A ROYAL NAME?

When Rabbi Zeira arrived in Eretz Yisrael from Babylon and heard Rabbi Yirmiyahu stating a matter of law he confirmed its reliability by reporting that the Sage “Arioch” had made the same ruling in Babylon.

Who is this sage with such a strange name?

The Talmud identifies him as the Sage Shmuel. Rashi explains that this is a title of respect accorded to Shmuel on the basis of a passage in the Torah (Bereishis 14:1) identifying Arioch as the King of Alasar.

To fully appreciate the meaning of this title we must recall that in the many halachic debates between the Sages Rav and Shmuel we rule like Rav in matters of “issur” — laws relating to what may or may not be done — and like Shmuel in monetary matters. Shmuel’s kingly authority in monetary matters thus finds expression in this title borrowed from a famous king of history.

But why this kind in particular?

Tosefos (Shabbos 53a) suggests that the name Arioch contains in it the word “ari” which is Hebrew for lion, king of the animals, and therefore enhances the authoritative nature of the title.

Another commentary proposes an ingenious approach. Arioch was King of Alasar. Break down the country he ruled and you get two words “Al” and “asar” which translates into “not in cases of issur.” In this fashion Arioch denotes the area in which Shmuel’s halachic authority reigns supreme, while Alasar serves as the boundary on how far this authority extends.

Parsha Insights

of the forefathers were also present in the Mishkan:

Like Sarah and Rivka’s lamps, the Ner HaMa’aravi (Western Light in the Mishkan) burned miraculously. From it they would light the other lights. Like the dough of Sarah and Rivka, the Show-Breads in the Mishkan were blessed. They would still be warm and fresh even after a week in the Mishkan, and all who ate from them were satiated by but a small piece. And, of course, like the tent of the forefathers, a cloud would hover over the Mishkan.

Why did Sarah’s lamps burn from Erev Shabbos to Erev Shabbos?

The weekdays could not destroy the light which they achieved on Shabbos. The lamps burned all week, fueled by that same kedusha (holiness). Thus, when the following Shabbos arrived, the light of the lamps that were lit only added to the light that had come from the previous Shabbos.

Similarly, when they lit the lamps in the Mishkan from the miraculous Ner HaMa’aravi, they were building on the light that shone from the previous day. And thus the light would build and build...

Why is yogurt with live acidophilus and bifidus cultures kosher to eat if we are not allowed to eat bugs?

David Preiss <preiss@ecf.utoronto.ca> wrote:

Why does the Torah speak of forms of life that are visible only to the human eye?

Dear Susan & David,

Good question. Now let me ask you one: Why are we allowed to breathe? Zillions of microorganisms are floating around in the air, and we swallow some with every breath.

The answer is: The Torah prohibits only bugs which can be seen by the naked eye. Organisms seen only with the aid of a microscope are kosher.

The logic is this: The Torah was given to human beings, not angels. Its laws are geared to normal human experience. Bugs we see in ‘real life’ are forbidden. ‘Invisible’ ones — which seem like they exist only in a laboratory — are not forbidden.

When improved microscopes brought improved awareness of microscopic organisms, some people suggested that perhaps we should filter our water to avoid consuming the organisms. A renowned rabbi responded: “If you give a nickel to charity while holding it under a magnifying glass, do you get credit as though you gave a dime?”

Speaking of germs: Three amoebae are sitting on a park bench. Suddenly, one of them jumps up and runs off.

“Hey! Where did Harry go?” one asks the other.

“Guess he had to split.” (Thanks to E.C.S.)

YIDDLE RIDDLE

Last week we asked:
If a tree falls in a forest, and there’s nobody around to hear it, does it make a noise?

Answer:
Yes, it makes a noise. The verse says, “There is no speaker, and no words, without their voice being heard.” (Psalms 19:4) Even if no creature hears the noise, Hashem hears it.
