Rashi never just comments; something in the text always impels him to do so. Rashi’s comments are answers to unspoken questions and difficulties arising from a thoughtful reading of the Torah. Therefore, anyone who wants a true understanding of Rashi’s classic Torah commentary must always ask

“What’s Bothering Rashi?”

“And Yisro, priest of Midian, Moshe’s father-in-law, heard all that (asher) G-d did for Moses and for Israel, His people, that (ki) G-d took Israel out of Egypt.” (Exodus 18:1)

Rashi: “What report did he hear that motivated him to come? The splitting of the Red Sea and the war with Amalek.”

Why does Rashi ask what Yisro heard, when the Torah states that he heard that “G-d took Israel out of Egypt?” Isn’t this event, Hashem taking them out of Egypt, specific enough for Rashi?

What’s bothering Rashi?

Answer: The verse presents two apparent problems:

• First the verse mentions what was done for “Moshe and the Children of Israel” and then it says “that Hashem took Israel out of Egypt.” Why is Moshe left out of the second phrase?
• Furthermore, the verse uses two different words, “asher” and “ki,” both of which can mean “that.” Less often, they can both mean “when.” If here both words mean “that,” why did the verse not use one term consistently — why did the verse switch from “asher” to “ki”?

Rashi, sensitive to these subtle changes, therefore translates the word “ki” as “when.” Now the verse reads, “Yisro heard all that G-d did when He took the Jews out of Egypt.” With this reading of the text, the verse is not specific about any particular event. Therefore, Rashi says “Yes, Yisro heard everything G-d did, but what specific event actually motivated Yisro to come join the Jewish people.”

Hashem didn’t “take Moshe out of Egypt” because Moshe was never enslaved there. But G-d did many things for Moshe when Israel went out of Egypt. The splitting of the sea and the war with Amalek were things done for both Moshe and the Jewish People. (Part of Yisro’s motivation may have been that Moshe was Yisro’s son-in-law, explaining why no other leader came to join the Jewish People.)

I Did Not Know That!

“Zachor es Yom HaShabbos L’kadsho — Remember the Shabbos day to sanctify it.”

This verse, which commands us to honor the 7th day, is the 7th verse of the Ten Commandments. It begins with “zayin”, the 7th letter of the Hebrew alphabet. In the following verses, 7 entities are commanded to rest: “You, your son, your daughter, your manservant, your maidservant, your animal, and the sojourner within your city gates.” Corresponding to these 7 are the 7 expressions of menucha — tranquillity — in the “atat echad” paragraph of the Shabbos afternoon prayer.
